LONDON BRIDGE is coming down to make room for a new and wider bridge. The present 65-foot structure over the Thames River is sinking into its clay at the rate of an inch every eight years. The new bridge will be 100 feet wide and will cost $6.72 million. It will be the fifth span to cross the Thames at this site. (AP Wirephoto)

Senate Quick In Approving U.N. Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate put on a burst of speed Friday to confirm Arthur J. Goldberg as America's new ambassador to the United Nations.

Goldberg went before the Foreign Relations Committee to declare his belief in strengthening the United Nations to help wipe out war and poverty and promote human rights and social justice.

Bipartisan Praise

"If I believed war was inevitable I would not be before you today," the 56-year-old Supreme Court justice, former secretary of labor and union lawyer told the senators.

Committee Republicans and Democrats alike praised President Johnson's choice to succeed the late Adlai E. Stevenson as the nation's top ambassador.

After the committee's vote hearing and unanimous approval, the full Senate in its first minutes after its opening gave voice to its affirmation to Goldberg without debate.

The administration plans to administer the oath of office to Goldberg speedily so that he can present his credentials at the United Nations on Monday.

The world organization is slated to tackle some major issues soon. Discussions on its financial crisis are scheduled next month and the General Assembly convenes in September.

Committee Democrats under Chairman J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas and Republicans headed by Iowa's Bourke B. Hickenlooper pointedly avoided grilling the newcomer to the job on the substance of problems facing the United Nations. Among these are the U.S.-Soviet impasse over the U.S.S.R.'s refusal to pay her U.N. peace-keeping dues.

On the financing-constitutional issue, Goldberg said only that he is "aware as a citizen of the gravity of the constitutional crisis confronting the United Nations and I share the conviction of the citizens of this country that that crisis must be resolved and the United Nations must go forward."

Paris, Algiers Ink Oil Accord

PARIS (AP) — The French-Algerian oil accord initiated Friday gives Algeria 53 to 55 per cent of the profits, and ties France to a $200-million aid plan over the next five years.

According to official sources, the pact was concluded for 15 years, renewable, but is open for revision by mutual accord in five years. Formal signing was scheduled for July 29 in Algiers.

The pact ends several months of negotiations on the Sahara Desert gas and oil reserves whose development began with mostly French government capital several years before Algerian independence. The new provisions replaced a 1962 accord which had set up a roughly 50-50 participation.

McKeithen Blasts Political Warring

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen Thursday told the annual state American Legion convention that while Louisianians have been wasting their time in political infighting neighboring states in the fields of education and industrial development.

He told the nearly 1,000 Legionnaires, "If we would throw down our swords and quit warring against each other, we could pick up this state by the bootstraps and elevate it to its proper place in the sun."

The chief executive, predicting that the state is on the verge of a tremendous industrial breakthrough, said in the first six months of this year, Louisiana attracted more industry than during any similar period in its history.

Cites Improvements

Louisianians have for decades warred politically with one another and, as a result, in spite of the state's tremendous natural resources, it was last nationwide in practically everything, he said.

But now, he told the delegates, Louisiana is first in the South in industrial development and first in country in governmental reforms, such as a code of ethics for state employees and elected officials.

This state is now being looked up to, he added, and is fast rising to a position of leadership which it hasn't held in over 100 years.

Referring to his industrial development program, the governor said he is seeking new plants for Louisiana to provide jobs.

"These new industries will also provide tax money for us to pay our teachers and our state employees higher salaries and to help us advance in many other fields," McKeithen said.

"I want our people to be able to hold their heads high once again," he said.

The Legion presented its annual awards to Louisiana newspapers judged to have contributed the most during the past year to advancement of the understanding of Legion programs.

The Shreveport Times was given the award for the metropolitan daily, the Crowley Daily Signal for the publication in the non-metropolitan daily field, and the Gonzales Weekly for the newspaper in the weekly or semi-weekly category.

150,000 Show Support For Papandreou

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A funeral march of more than 150,000 left-wing demonstrators surged through Athens in a show of support Friday for ousted Premier George Papandreou in his test with the Greek monarchy.

The government of Premier George Athanasiadis Novas responded with a tough show of strength of its own, packing the city with riot police and ordering the armed forces to stand by in case of disorder.

The funeral was for a student killed in the wild street fighting that tore through Athens Wednesday night when Papandreou followers clashed with police. That was the first fatality in the disorders that broke out after King Constantine dumped Papandreou in a show-down July 15.

Crowds Controlled

There was no rioting at the funeral. Under the threat of military intervention, the left-wing organizers of the demonstration clearly were under orders to avoid disturbances. Young leftists activists wearing armbands marched with the crowds to keep them under control.

The demonstration had the look of a perfectly coordinated show. This raised speculation that experienced leftist organizers were on the streets now, using the crowds as a flexible weapon in the political struggle that had this nation in its worst crisis since the Communist civil war, 1947-49.

In the morning, 2,000 demonstrators got the mass march under way, moving past the guarded Parliament building to the Athens Orthodox Cathedral where the body lay. The crowd swelled to more than 150,000 persons.

Papandreou attended the church service, then left for a news conference as the cortege moved on to the cemetery. There discipline dissolved. Thousands struggled to get in to watch as the body of the dead youth, Sotirios Petroulakis, 25, was lowered into the grave. They trampled graves underfoot, toppled tombstones and destroyed family grave sites in the crush.

Fishing Vessel Explodes; Eight Reported Dead

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — The Coast Guard said the fishing trawler Snoopy, with at least 12 persons aboard, exploded Friday night about 45 miles due east of Currituck Sound, N.C. First reports said eight persons were killed.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the trawler apparently snagged a torpedo or a mine in its nets about 9:30 p.m. while fishing.

The explosion left the vessel in pieces.

Four survivors had reportedly been picked up by vessels on the scene. Coast Guard aircraft were on the scene dropping flares to aid in rescue efforts.

There was no immediate word of the Snoopy's home port.

Coast Guard spokesmen said the trawler Scallop had picked up three of the survivors and the trawler Prowler had picked up another. They were proceeding to Chesapeake Lightship.

The spokesman at 5th District Coast Guard headquarters said the cutters Cape Current from Ocracoke, N.C., and Point Thatcher from Norfolk were proceeding at top speed to the scene of the blast. Aboard the Point Thatcher was a hospital corpsman.

The Coast Guard said at least 12, perhaps 13, persons were reported to have been aboard the Snoopy.

The Snoopy apparently was fishing in a fleet with at least three other vessels. Coast Guard officials said the first radio report of the blast came from the trawler Geraldine by way of a marine operator.

Early reports were that the Snoopy informed the other trawlers shortly before the explosion that its nets were snagged.

No Hearing Allowed On Ruby Judge

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby returned to the courtroom Friday and heard a district judge deny a defense motion for a hearing to disqualify Judge Joe B. Brown from further proceedings in the case.

In Good Spirits

Ruby, escorted to court by Sheriff Bill Decker and five deputies, was neatly dressed and appeared in good spirits. He read legal documents through thick, black-rimmed eyeglasses as attorneys argued the matter for an hour.

Dist. Judge Louis Holland of Montague, Tex., denied the motion at an afternoon session. He said the trial court had no jurisdiction to take up the disqualification matter because Ruby's death sentence has been appealed to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Brown was on the bench last year when a Dallas jury sentenced Ruby to death for killing Lee Harvey Oswald, the assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

The defense wants Brown formally disqualified from the case. Brown stepped down voluntarily June 21.

The defense lawyers, Phil Burleson of Dallas and Sam Houston Clinton of Austin, argued that Brown is writing a book about the Ruby case and therefore should be formally disqualified.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James M. Williamson countered that the question of Brown's disqualification was "moot" since he has removed himself from the case.

Holland, appointed to preside over an Oct. 18 sanity trial for Ruby, said he would hold a "full and complete hearing" on the disqualification issue if so directed by an appellate court.

One defense attorney said after the court session that "we want these facts (about the book writing) in the record" for the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Partly Cloudy, Hot Forecast

Twin Cities residents can expect partly cloudy skies with sizzling temperatures again today and Sunday, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

A few afternoon and evening thundershowers are also expected in the area weather picture.

High today should be 90 to 97 and low should be 70 to 74.

Friday's highest reading was 95 degrees noted about 3 p.m. and the low reading was 66 a.m. 70 degrees, FAA reported.

About 70 per cent sunshine is predicted for the area and southerly winds today should be five to 15 miles per hour.

LBJ, Aides Study Larger Draft Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, conferring with his top strategy advisers for the third straight day, focused Friday on possible increases in draft calls to support the expected build up of U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said, however, "No decision has yet been made on any of the subjects which are under discussion and deliberation." He added that he does not know when any decision will be made.

Moyers said additional studies are expected to be completed by Monday or Tuesday and before decisions are nailed down there will be further "meetings as well as consultations with congressional leaders of both parties."

Talks With Ike

It was disclosed that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who is vacationing at Minocqua, Wis., telephoned Johnson on another matter at midday and the two talked about the deliberations going on over Viet Nam.

Moyers said the question of calling up reserves to meet the manpower needs for Viet Nam was discussed Thursday and was not brought up Friday. But he indicated this does not mean this possibility is being ruled out.

After discussing the possible need to increase draft quotas, Moyers said, the President asked the service chiefs for more information and told them to make "further intensive examination of this question" over the weekend.

He asked that "special studies be made over the weekend on the additional strength that each military service may need in South Viet Nam," Moyers added.

There has been talk of putting in about 100,000 more U.S. military men in addition to the 75,000 already there.

Ky Proclaims Death For Viet Profiteers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — With U.S. involvement evidently due to rise, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government sought Friday to strengthen the Vietnamese war effort through an order of death for profiteers.

Execution is prescribed in a decree, announced by the official Viet Nam press, for persons convicted of manipulating prices, illegally hoarding goods or spreading false rumors to create economic confusion.

Penalties of imprisonment or death are ordered for a wide variety of other offenses, ranging from graft and unauthorized traffic in gold to "professing sympathy for communism or neutralism."

In combat, the U.S. 7th Fleet seemed to be playing an increasing role. A spokesman reported two destroyers, Stoddard and Ingersoll, lobbed explosives into Communist shore positions Thursday.

The Stoddard, assigned to defend the Da Nang harbor, was credited with "very effective harassment and interdiction fire" in a 249-shell bombardment of enemy positions. Spotters estimated the Ingersoll killed seven Viet Cong and wounded 15 in a strike 120 miles south of Da Nang.

Fliers struck hard again at Communist targets on both sides of the border. A military spokesman announced half a dozen bombing missions against North Viet Nam. He said U.S. Air Force and Vietnamese planes flew 165 sorties against Viet Cong concentrations and facilities in the South. A sortie is the flight of one plane.

The spokesman said an American pilot and his Vietnamese observer were killed in the crash of a U.S. Air Force observation plane that was directing a strike 50 miles south of Da Nang base. Field observers reported the plane pulled up, stalled and fell after pinpointing a target with smoke.

A mishap in the Da Nang area cost the life of a U.S. Marine.

Police Hunt U.S. Adviser For Killings

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Police spread a dragnet through the slums of Saigon Saturday for an American aid official suspected of killing his chief and a Vietnamese woman.

The manhunt broadened following the reported discovery of the suspect's motorcycle. Vietnamese police distributed passport sized photographs of him to passersby and plain clothes agents.

The picture showed the man to be bald, and bespectacled. Vietnamese police identified him as Robert Kimball, born in Utah in 1928. The name Kimball was written on the backs of the pictures handed out by police.

Safety Worker

The American victim was identified as Jack Ryan, 44, chief of the U.S. aid mission's Public Safety Division, which advises the Vietnamese police force. The dead woman was identified as Mrs. Nguyen Thi Hai, an employee of Ryan's department.

Vietnamese police and American security men followed a dozen leads in trying to trace the suspect. His old haunts were searched, and his friends questioned.

Ryan, a former FBI agent and a veteran of 10 years' service in Southeast Asia, headed some 100 Americans giving police training to the South Vietnamese.

He leaves a wife and two children, none of whom are in Saigon.

Ryan was shot in the chest and head as he stepped from his car after he had called on another American earlier in the evening about a housing problem, police sources said. Either shot could have been fatal, a doctor said.

The police sources said Mrs. Hai apparently arrived at Ryan's villa earlier and was waiting for him when the gunman arrived. She seemed to have tried to flee but was cut down by a bullet, they said. The assailant dragged her body inside the house.

When police arrived, the lights on Ryan's car still shone on the bloody scene.

Friends of the parties involved said that Mrs. Hai and the suspect had been close friends. The U.S. Embassy and the Vietnamese national police immediately began a full-scale investigation in a potentially embarrassing case for the American official colony here.

In the past year, the U.S. aid mission's Public Safety Division has grown in size and importance with the expansion of the Vietnamese police force to 40,000 men.

Ryan, in addition, was personal adviser to Col. Pham Van Lieu, chief of the Vietnamese national police service. As such, he was one of the ranking U.S. advisers in South Viet Nam.

The slaying raises difficult legal complications. South Viet Nam and the United States have no formal status-of-forces agreement providing for trial of U.S. servicemen charged with capital crimes here.

There have been a number of fatal brawls involving Americans and Vietnamese in the past, but all these cases have been handled quietly by U.S. courts-martial.

Earlier this year a Vietnamese girl was found shot to death by an apparently self-inflicted wound in the bed of a field-grade U.S. Army officer, with the officer's service automatic.

Monroe Police Clear Up Theft, Two Burglaries

Monroe police cleared two burglaries and a theft Friday but promptly had a safe burglary on their hands.

According to police, two teen-aged Negroes have admitted the burglaries and the theft. They were identified as Carl Ray Joshua, 17, of 703 Jack McEnergy St., and Harvey Williams, 18, of 2701 Prospect St., both of Monroe.

The two are charged with the burglaries of the Oak Leaf Bar, 601 Stone Ave., and the Railroad Drink Stand, 201 S. 6th St.; and the theft of money from a soft drink machine at the Missouri Pacific Railroad depot. The incidents occurred earlier this week. Both Negroes were arrested by Alexandria authorities and returned to Monroe.

The safe burglary, which netted about $30, occurred at Murco Inc., at 417 Walnut St. late Thursday night or early Friday morning. Police said the safe was forced open and the money taken.

Booked by the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department for theft Friday was Archie D. McKinley, 17, of 1008 Evergreen St., West Monroe. McKinley, along with four juveniles, was apprehended for taking gasoline from a contracting firm near West Monroe.

Also booked by the sheriff's department were George E. Butler of 2019 Thomas St., Monroe, and Joseph Johnson of 2208 Berg Jones Lane, also Monroe. Butler was charged with aggravated assault and Johnson with aggravated battery.

Booked with felony theft and simple burglary in Monroe was Joe Goodjoint, 19, of 705 Ouachita Ave., Monroe. Charged with felony theft alone was Charlie Brown, 17, of 609 Stone Ave., Monroe. Both were apprehended in the 600 block of Stone Friday.

Parents Pay Dearly Raising Child To 18

By ROBERT SIMONTON
World Staff Writer

Average parents in Monroe spend at least $25,000 raising a child to the age of 18.

The approximate figure of bringing up a child until he's reached the age of semi-maturity or semi-self-support is derived thusly: The average Monroe yearly family income is $5,000 and the average family size is four persons. Using a recent Chamber of Commerce family expenditure index, a little arithmetic and lots of tabulations, we come up with the $25,000 figure.

The "big three" of raising junior are food, clothing and shelter.

If he eats his share, and what kid doesn't, it amounts to $4,050 for the 18-year period. On the other hand, if he eats like a horse then the bill goes up. Food in this case is the amount consumed on the premises of the home, not the shakes, sodas, soft drinks, candy, hot dogs, pop corn, hamburgers, and so on, that kids seem to crave between meals.

Clothing? From the time of the altogether to the diapers to the dress suit it's about $82 per year, conservatively speaking, if you please. That's $1,476 for the entire period. This does not include laundry, dry cleaning or repairs, or electricity and wear and tear if mom slaves over the washing machine or iron all day so Susie can look nice.

A repeat of the $4,050 food figure is made for housing. Eighteen per cent of the average Monroe family income is spent on housing and the child must be included in the space, maintenance and use of utilities for the home. But, often the wear and tear by the "normally growing" child cannot be adequately measured.

About $450 is allowed for drugs and medicine. Hospital and doctor bills mount up and finally reach about $3,600 at the end of the 18th year. Add a little or subtract a little depending upon the child's stamina.

The family car — or cars, as the case may be and usually is — also must be figured in since by the time the kid is big enough to see over the steering wheel he's anxious to get behind it and drive. Johnny's share of the gasoline should be $1,800.

Add about $5,400 to automotive costs during the 18-year period. This includes mom's taxi service to and from school and meetings and also vacation time.

School days are bill paying days for the parents. It's estimated that the average family pumps out at least $25 per year for paper, pens, books, crayons, satchels, etc. for each child. This is $450 for the period. Don't forget to add school lunches for a total of about $972.

At 18, or sometimes even 17, the child enters college. That's when the expenses and accompanying worries really begin.

Junior won't let you forget his weekly allowance, therefore it cannot be forgotten in our tabulations on raising him. An average is $1 a week — or $936. In many cases, the allowance nowadays goes up to $5 or even more per week. But, we're trying to be conservative.

Already, we have hit over

Several Fined During Monroe Court Session

A session of Monroe City Court Friday was presided over by Judge W. M. Harper.

Fined $425 and costs for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages was Felix D. Thornton of Mansfield.

Nick Forbitto of 1100 S. 3rd St., Monroe, was fined $100 and costs for attempted theft. A charge of theft against Woodrow Solie of 2312 Short Washington St., Monroe, was discharged.

Ernest W. Toms of 306 1/2 Orange St., Monroe, was fined $40 and costs for simple battery. The same count lodged against M. B. Beardon of 213 Peach St., Monroe, was discharged. Also charged with simple battery was Frank Lively of 408 Wilmont St., Monroe. His case was nolle prossed.

Also nolle prossed were theft by check counts against Jack Moses of 1309 N. 6th St., West Monroe, and W. B. Harestone of Winnsboro.

Negligent driving cases and dispositions were Minnie B. Manning of P. O. box 5, Monroe, Joe Chandler of Bastrop, and G. L. Temple of 1128 Fern St., West Monroe, all $30 and costs fines.

Penalties paid to the traffic violations bureau for negligent driving were Silas Jiles of 2017 1/2 Thomas St., West Monroe, H. H. Graves of 1516 Washington St., Monroe, Herbert Coleman of 305 Marx St., Monroe, J. M. Johnson of Bastrop and James G. Hammons of Rt. 2, Box 419 West Monroe, all $30 and costs.

Penalties paid for speeding were John Mullins of Lexington, Tex., and W. M. Hight of Gary, Tex., both $25 and costs; Larry Sheffield of 3405 Breville St., Shreveport, Katie W. Nettles of 819 N. 2nd St., Monroe, and W. L. Tipton of 1717 Emerson St., Monroe, all $15 and costs; J. T. McLendon of Rayville, $12 and costs.

Richard Ethridge of 3905 Deborah Dr., Monroe, K. M. Cain of 1710 S. 6th St., Monroe, R. E. Hislop of 617 Wheelis St., Monroe, Amos Coleman of 1112 DeSiard St., Monroe, Sarah M. Roberts of 1602 Parkview Dr., Monroe, Beulah Shipp of 120 Parkdale, Monroe, and Sarah P. Fairley of 4005 Curry St., Monroe, all $10 and costs; J. L. Lindsay of 1100 Sterling Rd., Monroe, $8 and costs; and Willie Spears of 3610 Curtis St., Monroe, B. L. Leonard of 206 Clark St., Monroe, and Alex W. Price of Sterlington, all $5 and costs.

Traffic Stoppers

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Streetcars were temporarily blocked Friday on some lines by puppets dangling from the overhead electric lines dressed in the colors of the American flag and inscribed "Murderers, get out of Viet Nam." Police removed them and streetcar traffic resumed. The puppets were ascribed to Italian leftist organizations.

the $22,000 mark. But there's more to come.

There are movies, the usual Saturday matinee, and all the other times in between, costs from 25 to 75 cents these days. And, what kid will go to the movies without that extra 15 or 25 cents to spend on crunchy stuff? There are also other types of entertainment in which the small fry indulge and parents have to shell out for these.

Add the costs of the boy or girl scouts, camps, club dues, costumes for plays, church contributions, birthday and Christmas gifts, ad infinitum.

Now, parents of Monroe, just stop and think of the many lovely things you could have had if you hadn't raised kids. What? You say they are worth a lot more than a Cadillac, fur coats, yachts, a trip to Europe. Agreed! And, you can also look at it this way — someday their grubby little fists won't be there to accept that money.

THE KING'S AIDE interviews Anna and her son before they are presented to the King of Siam in the Little Theatre's summer musical "The King and I," which opened Friday night at Strauss Playhouse on Lamy Lane.

Siamese Spectacular Graces Local Stage

By JOHN CALE
Staff Critic

"The King and I," Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical setting of Margaret Landon's novel, "Anna and the King of Siam," opened to a capacity-plus audience at Strauss Playhouse Friday evening.

This long-standing tragedy-comedy, based on attempts of an oriental monarch and a British schoolteacher to put their best feet forward, calls for a huge cast of players and behind-the-scenes workers.

To begin with, we must add that the cast listed here cannot include — for reasons of space and time — the children, wives, slaves, attendants and priests; orchestra members, wardrobe assistants and make-up staff. It's sufficient to say that we're constantly amazed that such a spectacular production can be put together during the summer months here, and an adequate force on and off stage recruited.

As a spectacle, "King and I" remains unsurpassed. And it made excellent use of the dual talents of leading lady Dawn Gandy. Her polished soprano voice was in accurate, flowing form, and she wore the elegant costumes like a model.

But balancing the real prima donna angle in Miss Gandy's personality is a rather astounding communication with groups of children. Hence the school-room scene in Act I with the now-familiar tune: "Getting to Know You," is one of the local production's highlights.

Roadway System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Community Facilities Administration Friday announced a $248,500 advance to St. Charles Parish, La., for planning a roadway system through the west bank of the parish.

The estimated cost of the project is $12,606,100. The roadway system would link the parish via a traffic loop with industrial centers in the adjoining parishes of Jefferson and St. John the Baptist.

5-Member Group Named To Work On Border Feud

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen said Friday he has appointed a five-member group to work with Texas authorities in drafting joint legislative recommendations that can settle the Sabine River boundary dispute.

Possibly millions of dollars in mineral deposits will be involved.

Louisiana has claimed its boundary extends to the western bank, but Texas says the middle of the stream.

On June 28, Texas Gov. John Connally named a seven-man commission to work with Louisiana authorities.

On the Louisiana commission are Sidney Fazio, the governor's executive counsel, who will serve as Louisiana chairman; Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion, register of state lands Ellen Bryan Moore, Sen. Howard Jones, St. Joseph, and Rep. Lloyd Himel, St. James Parish.

Jes Ramblin'

Greetings

Celebrating a birthday Sunday will be Mrs. Jessie Black Pennington.

A native of Bienville Parish, Mrs. Pennington lived in Goldonna for 20 years, prior to moving to a Monroe nursing home three years ago.

Since it's considered bad form and blabbermouth to inform on a woman's age, we'll simply say that Mrs. Pennington achieved her majority 57 years ago.

It'll be a weekend of celebrations in her family, since her great granddaughter, Richina Tyler, also of Monroe, becomes seven today.

New Duties

Soon to assume new duties at Naval Air Station at Meridian, Miss., is George Lee King Jr., son of Mrs. Margaret King of Rt. 2, West Monroe, who is presently home on leave. The airman who enlisted in April will go to Meridian in a few days.

Due back at their West Monroe home, 102 Riggs St., over the weekend, after a week's vacation trip to Florida, are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Mason and daughters, Brenda and Janice.

Most of the time was spent in Jacksonville and Palatka visiting friends and relatives, and for Mason, a "great fisherman," there was also some angling.

Irish Freighter Explosion Takes Lives Of Four

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A fierce pre-dawn fire and thick black smoke engulfed the sleeping quarters of a 449-foot Irish freighter here Friday, killing four members of the crew.

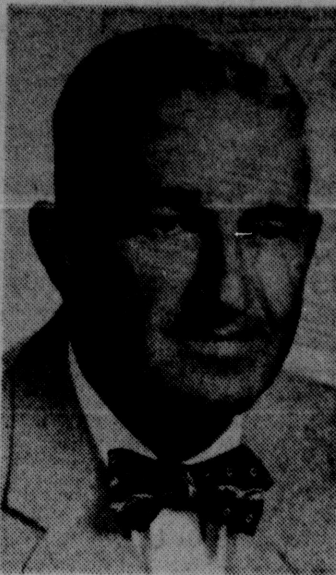

Two fire boats and city firemen labored more than an hour to control the flames aboard the Irish Seaymore, a 10,550 ton converted tanker out of Dublin. Damage was estimated in the thousands of dollars.

The intense heat of the fire blistered paint on the outside of the ship.

The dead seamen, all from Ireland, were identified as Patrick Cowhey, 44, an oiler; Thomas Ring, 26, ordinary seaman; Michael Walsh, 21, able-bodied seaman, and William Gaule, 21, able-bodied seaman.

The vessel, which docked in this Mississippi River port city yesterday with a load of steel products and lubricating oil from Japan, carries a crew of 39 men.

"Every mother's son of them" was aboard when the fire began, said Capt. Padraig O'Shea, the bearded skipper as he surveyed the damage.

RALPH CALDWELL

Caldwell Takes Over Office Of UGF President

Ralph Caldwell, a Twin Cities civic worker and former official of Olin Mathieson Corporation, has accepted the office of president pro-tem of the United Givers Fund Board of Directors.

This action was taken by the UGF Executive Committee after receiving the resignation of J. H. "Slim" Scogin Jr. Scogin announced his decision to leave the city after investing in a business enterprise in Winnsboro.

Scogin had served as president of the UGF Board of Directors since their annual meeting in February, 1965. Members of the Executive Committee were unanimous in their praise of Scogin's past efforts and extended their sincere hopes for his success in Winnsboro.

Caldwell, who presently serves on the UGF Board as secretary, accepted the responsibilities of the presidency pro-tem for the completion of this year's term of office.

Scogin expressed his appreciation to all the Executive Committee members and members of the UGF Board for their past interest and help in making the United Givers Fund successful. He particularly encouraged each member of the board and every citizen to support the fall campaign drive. He pointed out it is efficient and economical way of combining all health, welfare and recreational activities into one drive.

Caldwell, in addition, is presently serving as president of the YMCA. He has been active in all UGF campaigns, serving on the UGF board for a number of years, Quota and Admissions Committee, and was general campaign chairman for the 1964-65 campaign.

In accepting his new assignment, Caldwell said, "I am well aware of the urgent need for the increase in the goal this year and will do my best to make this the most successful year we've ever had."

He paid tribute to the enthusiastic work of Scogin and pledged a continuation of these efforts to provide increases for the participating agencies made necessary by the growing community.

'Safe' Cars Demanded

Following the recent Fourth of July high fatality record on the highways, a demand is being made for construction of safer automobiles. There is nothing new but the demand is becoming more urgent, as it is known that there are many ways in which fatalities could be reduced.

In a session in which members of a Senate subcommittee began quizzing automobile executives about putting more safety into passenger cars, two big questions arose: "What will it cost and who foots the bill?"

A few years back, one big automobile manufacturer installed a number of safety features on their own in its automobiles and widely proclaimed the fact. It found that additional safety factors did not bring the anticipated increase in sales. Some manufacturers concluded motorists preferred "class" to safety, and that was what they gave them.

One safety expert has contended for some years that safety bumpers alone on all passenger cars would reduce deaths and injuries by more than 50 per cent and that if other safety factors were added it might be possible to reduce deaths and injuries by at least 75 per cent even if the present ratio of automobile crashes continued to occur. He proposes recoil bumpers extending about 15 or 18 inches in the front and back. Such bumpers, he contends, would temper the impact, giving it a 30 to 36 inch slowdown before "the irresistible force strikes the immovable object."

Among those pressing for safer cars is Senator Abraham Ribicoff, D., Conn., chairman of the subcommittee on executive reorganization.

"I am convinced that people will pay a few dollars more for a safer car," Ribicoff said.

He estimated a series of extra safety features, soon to be required on government automobiles, could be made standard equipment on all cars for about $100 each.

The Senator and his aides reported a heavy flow of mail endorsing safety efforts but said few of the letters mention the extra cost. Whatever is spent on safety devices could easily be offset by removal of a number of features that are strictly in the luxury class. Certainly manufacturers are for safety if the people will accept them since manufacturers have tried to interest the buying public in them for years.

Ribicoff said the inquiry was a general one looking toward formulation of a national policy on the whole question of automobiles and accidents.

There are now 16 federal agencies connected with highway safety programs. Ribicoff wants these efforts centered in the Commerce Department.

One manufacturer announced recently that some safety features, including padded dashboards, seat belt anchorages, standardized windshield wipers and washers, and backup lights will be standard on all its 1966 cars.

One thing is certain. The death and injury rate will not be reduced much further by the simple expedient of urging greater caution. Such caution has been exhaustively urged for a good many years, with the result that there are few who have not heard of these warnings. If they haven't been heeded up to now, they will not be heeded at a much greater rate in the future. It is apparent drivers, who could cut the toll easier and quicker than anyone, won't.

This means that if we are to have fewer traffic injuries and deaths we must have safer automobiles and highways.

As a matter of principle, we are strongly opposed to federal interference in industry. It would seem, however, that there is almost as much need for safe automobiles as there is for safe medicine. In the medical field, rigid supervision is exercised. Perhaps the government will awaken the public to the vital necessity of safer cars by requiring safety devices on all automobiles used by the government. Manufacturers themselves feel a great responsibility for manufacturing the safest machines possible, and we believe they will if the public will back them as they should.

Compulsion On 14(b)

There now seems to be general agreement among news analysts that the whip will be applied to farm-state Senators and Representatives to make them vote for repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley labor law. In this way, labor union bosses expect to get a majority vote for their measure even though most members of Congress oppose repeal of Section 14(b). The plan is to make farm-state Congressmen vote for this repeal before they can get their own crop-support bill approved.

This is a price farmers are having to pay for having been led into depending on the federal government for support. Normally, farmers are among the most independent people in the world. Under the federal farm program, their independence and freedom have been taken from them.

Top union and government officials have given statements on why they think Section 14(b) should be repealed. The union reason seems to be to give the unions more power so that they can demand an unfair share of the national income. The politicians' reason is that they want to keep campaign promises. Neither answer bears on the principle involved.

Growth of centralized government in the United States is frightening. Compulsion is applied to the most personal affairs of life, such as the right not to pay for a job, the right not to pay for state medicine and the right to freedom of choice in many matters, including the right to choose one's associates.

In Congress a bill has been introduced to exempt members of certain religious organizations from being compelled to join a union to hold a job, because this is contrary to their basic religious convictions and teachings of their churches. This bill properly upholds the right to worship as one chooses but it should not be necessary. The right which it seeks to provide specifically for members of certain churches is a right that is inherent for everyone in a free country. Convictions of church people should be respected but so should those of individuals who have been taught to uphold freedom in the United States. It is discriminatory to say that if one belongs to a certain church he has a right not to join some organization while another law provides that if he is not a member of a certain church or churches he must join a union to hold a job.

Last year Congress passed a law outlawing job discrimination on the basis of color, race, religion or creed. Now it is being asked to legalize discrimination in employment because of lack of membership in a private organization — a labor union. This is as unthinkable as asking Congress to legalize non-employment of a man because he chooses to belong to a labor union or because he doesn't belong to and pay dues to the National Association of Manufacturers.

Either way, it is unjustified limitation of action and thought. It is depressing to see the time of Congress taken up with proposals to deny states their right to pass right-to-work laws, thus taking one more step down the road to federalization of local affairs. Another generation or so along this road we are traveling and free state and local government will no longer exist.

Republicans Show Vitality

Some Believe New Leader Is Needed

A SLOGAN NOW dying out, but in an earlier generation heard almost daily was "Let's get organized."

Quite a few people have suggested that it should be revived and put over the entrance of the Republican National Committee. The fact is that the organization is being done by factional groups, sometimes referred to as "splinters" rather than by the central body.

The new chairman of the Republican National Committee, Ray C. Bliss of Ohio, regards this as unfortunate, but it may bring conservative and moderate voters into new coalitions which will have a very definite effect on the nation's elections during the next twelve years.

Listening to Republicans around Washington now sends one away with the impression that the 1964 defeat is being sensibly assayed, and that the idea that the Republican party is through has no validity at all. But it is time to get organized, and today's thinking concerns the best way to do it.

THE 20,000,000 votes which Barry Goldwater received, when analyzed by States and districts, give the party wrestling room against Democratic majorities. In Washington hotel lobbies many Republicans — so many that no party with so many spokesmen could possibly be moribund — keep saying that the party needs a leader, which to a veteran political reporter is reminiscent of what Democrats were saying after the defeat of Governor Al Smith by Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Franklin D. Roosevelt came along to fan away their gloom, and that of the country, as well. Now the Republican gloom merchants cannot see any untipped cigarette holder to give them hope, but the sideline observers can give them ideas. The first suggestion, voiced by enough spokesmen to have some weight, is that the Republican party should ditch those who as Senator Everett Dirksen once said "have led us down the road to defeat" and build up a few younger aspirants to important political office.

The bulk of the American voters, whether Democrat or Republican, only become interested in political organization when an election — local, state or national — is at hand. That is why the candidate with the name, rather than the issue, frequently is controlling for a majority of the voters.

POLITICIAN has been a rather disreputable term over the years. Dwight D. Eisenhower, with his great military reputation, did more to remove the onus which those who work at politics must bear than any individual in recent times but, after eight years in office, he has shown that his qualities of political leadership are not on a level with those of the party spokesmen who come up the political hard way.

Now that Barry Goldwater has relinquished any claim he might have to national party leadership, those who lament the lack of young and vigorous leadership and better organization overlook the fact that the Goldwater campaign — at least for the nomination — was one of the best demonstrations of "let's get organized" ever seen in American politics.

It brought the nomination, a great feat of itself, to a candidate who, though not an experienced campaigner nor organizer, polled approximately 39 per cent of the total vote. Much of that achievement was the result of door to door telephone solicitation, community meetings, and organization of small groups.

THAT SHOULD have set an example for the Republican party, and provide a reminder to those who talk of lack of leadership and of the various splinter groups, each of whom in its aggressive way seeks control of the party.

If this seems like preaching, it might also be pointed out that the Republican party has talked more and done less about "grass roots" organization, until Goldwater came along and his supporters really started at the grass roots, than any political group in recent years.

It has been said that Democrats have a greater natural political aptitude than Republicans, but that expression has become current only in the last quarter century. Before that Republicans had the organization, locally and by States, which made them the dominant party as long as their party was united.

The Democratic party has risen to eminence on the general theories of the welfare state, but that great euphoria will eventually reach a fulfillment, even sociologists admit, in which the major parties will again bear a closer resemblance as they did before individual welfare became the controlling issue in national elections.

Republican hopes for some years to come seem likely to rest on local elections. When the political situation allows them to challenge the Democrats at the national level, it will probably be on compelling fiscal and economic issues. But "let's get organized" will be the propelling impulse.

Goldwater Race Given Criticism

'TIS THE SEASON for recriminations. Mr. Stephen Shadegg, who was for years an intimate of Senator Goldwater, ran his successful campaigns for the Senate in 1952 and 1958, and — he now informs us — also ghosted the Senator's syndicated column during the years before the nomination at San Francisco.

Mr. Shadegg's book, What Happened to Goldwater, cannot really be said to have a central thesis concerning what it is that "happened" to Goldwater. He lodges a number of complaints against individuals on the Senator's staff, and criticizes several of the Senator's policy decisions. But that kind of thing, however plausible the criticisms are — indeed however deserved they may be — can always be done at an inquest conducted over the corpse of a dead candidate. I do not deny Mr. Shadegg's cogency, but one wonders whether if the campaign had been run as, let us say, he would have run it, the results would have been substantially different.

MR. SHADDEGG reveals that Senator Goldwater did not have his heart in the campaign. This is not to say that he didn't make the maximum effort to win, but rather that, knowing he was bound to lose, his motions became somewhat mechanical, rather like the calisthenics of the athlete whose professional career is over. Senator Goldwater was enthusiastic for the fight, after deciding to make it in the fall of 1964. But when President Kennedy was killed, he knew intuitively what it meant in American politics: that Lyndon Johnson was a sure bet for re-election. That piece of political intuition — which it was heresy to mention during those days, if you were pro-Goldwater — marks the Senator, in my judgment, as a man of a higher order of political intelligence than that of many of the professionals who surrounded him.

In the current issue of Esquire Mr. Charles Mohr of the New York Times writes an uneven "Requiem for a Lightweight." His thesis is that Senator Goldwater is essentially a man of thought so trivial, whose utterances grouped together were in mortal conflict with one another, that he was bound to lose; and, thank God — and His able assistant, the New York Times — did.

THE TROUBLE WITH Mr. Mohr's criticisms is that anyone with experience in American politics knows that such contradictions as there were in the Senator's public statements are not rare in a politician, particularly in a politician who has devoted himself to stating basic philosophical propositions. If Mr. Charles Mohr set out to do so he could find great inconsistencies in the public statements of Abraham Lincoln: and indeed, if he programmed the public statements of Lyndon Johnson into a non-partisan machine, it would gag over the contradictions. Senator Goldwater has been subjected to the greatest lint-picking analytical operation since Aristotle, and under those Klieg lights almost any man who is part philosopher, part politician, is bound to wilt. One learns more about the Establishment in this country than about Senator Goldwater from such post-mortems as Mr. Mohr's, who if he thought to put out such an analysis of, let us say, the public statements of Senator John F. Kennedy, would find the editor staring at him in dumb amazement.

"There was no reality whatever to the . . . hope of victory. There was only a historical perspective that required him to go down bloody on the floor, in defeat. History would have to record that the Republican Party had not submitted docilely to this new leadership, but has resisted to the end — so that from this resistance and defeat, others, later, might take heart and resume the battle." These words — by Theodore White, in The Making of the President, 1964, were written not about Goldwater, but about William Scranton's role in San Francisco. Why would they not apply to Goldwater, for those who believe, in their hearts, that he was right? Because the mood of the day is for recriminations, and it will be a long while before Goldwater's performance in 1964 receives an objective hearing.

BARRY GOLDWATER

Says Integration Law Hits Rights

MUCH OF THE LAST Presidential campaign was devoted to criticism of my voting record on two issues which were considered fundamental: the test ban treaty and the civil rights law.

Because many Republicans voted for both of them, while I voted against them, it was said that I was out of step with my party. I reject that interpretation because neither vote reflected a partisan position — both resulted from deeply held personal convictions.

The point is this: those votes reflected honest differences of opinion and not either a Republican or a Democrat position. Democrats respected as liberals voted against the civil rights bill because of constitutional reservations; Republicans called conservatives voted for the test ban because of personal convictions having nothing to do with a fundamental party line.

IN THE CIVIL rights law, it is my conviction that the sections on public accommodations and employment violate absolutely fundamental rights in favor of illusory rights. With the test ban treaty, I believe this nation has recklessly placed itself in an inferior technological position without a realistic guarantee that the Soviet Union is in an equally disabled condition — and if so, that it will remain so.

To find a vote that reflects a definite partisan principle, look at the recent vote on legislation to provide a federal subsidy to certain families for the payment of rent.

Clearly this is a collectivist versus individualist issue, a Democrat versus Republican issue, a bureaucracy versus free enterprise issue — no ifs, ands or buts.

Note the qualifications of this bill.

It has been aptly described as the first new idea President Johnson has contributed to his so-named Great Society. But he has admitted in certain moments of candor that segments of this welfare-state blueprint are either leftover from the Kennedy days or copies of plans laid down much earlier by such men as Huey Long, the Louisiana Kingfish, or Franklin Roosevelt, the first of the "dealers."

THIS BILL WOULD shatter by its precedent every single barrier to every intrusion of federal power into the affairs of our citizens. If the federal government can pay your rent, it can pay for everything else. If it can pay for everything, with money first taken from the people, it can control everything.

The bill is not much more complicated than that, although I understand that such simple pictures are old fashioned in these days of studied complexity and complex studies.

Finally, no bill of recent memory more neatly sums up the fundamental differences between Democrat and Republican principles.

But what happened? The bill passed the House, thanks to the votes not of Democrats but of four men whose party labels say Republican—Reps. Lindsay, Halpern, Reid and Horton of New York. For anyone truly interested in men who have swum completely out of the mainstream of their party, this quartet is a classic example. We await the analysis of their defection — but not while holding our breath.

Committee Wants To Decide College Operation Expense

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Sen. Fred Eagan's legislative committee put strong emphasis Friday on gaining a fiscal measure sticking to judge how efficiently state colleges operate.

The New Orleans senator,

Turkeys Die

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Two large Iowa turkey raisers lost more than 3,500 birds in the state's sizzling heat Thursday.

The birds smothered when they piled up around drinking troughs or sought relief from 98-degree temperatures in the shade of open shelters.

committee chairman, asked two top state fiscal officers to work with the Louisiana Legislative Council in drafting a program of cost analysis for higher education. The two are State Budget Officer Homer Russell and Legislative auditor J. B. Lancaster.

Eagan said he wanted to meet with them again in two weeks. The committee returns Aug. 5-6.

Mack Avants, executive assistant to Education Supt. William J. Dodd, was asked for Education Department assistance in studying possible expansion of a junior college system and in figuring future campus enrollments.

Sen. Sylvan Friedman of Natchez, said he had heard some communities with trade schools—in attempting to keep the schools in operation—plan to ask the 1966 legislature to convert them into junior colleges.

Avants suggested a survey of what other states were doing in the junior college field.

Committee members discussed the possibility of extending their schools two grades as one means of establishing junior colleges to help weed out those unable to make the grade in four-year colleges.

On educational television, Avants said when the Education Department builds its new state headquarters building, a study will be installed to pipe some programs to schools. He said he envisioned a top instructor lecturing via TV to hundreds of high school students.

The committee decided to invite President W. E. Whetstone of the state Board of Education and university and college presidents under the board's wing to the committee's Aug. 6 meeting. Officials of Louisiana State University and the LSU board will be invited later for similar talks.

Negro Is Jailed For Burglary At Jonesboro Store

JONESBORO (Special) — Rufus Conley, 20-year-old Jonesboro Negro, was apprehended here Friday afternoon and jailed in connection with a burglary early Friday at the E. P. McKinney Grocery Store.

Police said the Negro admitted throwing a large rock through a plate glass door of the establishment, gaining entrance and making off with a hind quarter of beef and 26 cartons of cigarettes.

The goods were recovered from an alley behind the store, police said.

The Negro is being held under $1500 bond in the Jackson Parish jail at Jonesboro.

Conley told Jonesboro police that he and a companion were passing by the store between 3 and 4 a.m. Friday when he decided to throw the rock at the door.

He told officers that a Negro companion warned him against it and left when he threw the rock. Conley said he went inside then and took the goods in question.

Investigating officers found blood on the door, inside the store. Police said Conley's arm and hand were cut when he threw the rock at the door.

Conley was arrested at a relative's house about two blocks from the store.

Eighteen Negroes were arrested at the McKinney store Wednesday after McKinney, a white man, charged that Negro pickets were blocking entrances.

Gov. John J. McKeithen advised officers to make the arrests.

Two Area Water Loans Approved

WASHINGTON (Special) — The Farmers Home Administration Agriculture Department has approved two area water system loans totaling $96,000, Louisiana congressional leaders announced Friday.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D) La. said that Noble received a $46,000 loan to construct a modern house to house water system for 58 families.

The Greater Ward One Waterwork District received a $50,000 loan to install a rural community water system serving 50 families near Ruston.

Negro Woman Dies In Flames

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Mrs. Mary Warren, 50-year-old Negro of West Crossett, died Friday afternoon when a fire swept through her home.

A member of the Crossett Fire Department said Mrs. Warren was apparently cleaning paint brushes with gasoline in her house when the fuel exploded causing flames to race through the interior of the frame house.

Firemen reached the home in time to save most of the house, but the woman, who was alone in the house at the time, was dead when they arrived.

What insurance company gives a driver's test to teenage drivers for lower insurance rates?

A: In Louisiana, male drivers under 25 may get a reduction in automobile insurance rates (ranging from 10 to 15 per cent among different companies) if they have completed a driver's education course that is approved by the state. Among requirements are 30 hours of classroom work and six hours behind the wheel.

Could you tell me how a writer (unknown) goes about contacting publishers? Also, does work submitted to a publisher have to be type-written?

There are several approved sources listing publishers and their addresses. Your local or area library is a good start. Look for the Reader's Guide or ask for other available periodicals containing information on publishers. "The Writer's Digest," a monthly magazine, is an excellent source. It lists book and magazine publishers and addresses, and also information concerning the type manuscripts they seek. In addition, there is the "Writer's Yearbook," published annually with a complete listing of markets soliciting material. Both of these can be obtained at news stands in Monroe. Work submitted to a publisher should be typewritten. Usually untyped manuscripts are automatically rejected or find their way into the discard pile. Nowadays, publishers require typed work, double-spaced, one and one-half inch margins, with name and address of the author and approximate number of words in the upper right hand corner of first page of the manuscript.

What is the name of the Beatles new motion picture and when will it be released in the United States?

"Go, Go, Mania!" is the Beatles latest film and it has already been released in the United States, through American-International. In fact, it will begin playing at the new Star Drive-In Theatre in West Monroe on Aug. 4.

Who owns the cars that are used for driver training programs at the parish high schools? Who furnishes the upkeep? Also, if not privately owned, why are they allowed to be used for private use, such as shopping, movies and Sunday driving?

Cars used in the drivers education program are supplied by the motor companies; through local dealerships, and ownership is retained by them. The school board provides only upkeep and operating expenses.

Supt. Milton C. Hall says that private use of the vehicles is prohibited, except to the extent that drivers education teachers take the cars to and from their homes. This is done, he says, at the request of the motor companies because of past vandalism on the vehicles when they were left at the schools.

How would I apply for a job as a state trooper? What are the requirements? What is the starting salary?

Capt. M. E. Kidd, commander of Troop F, Louisiana State Police, said a person interested should obtain a civil service examination blank from the Louisiana Employment Service offices and, when filled out and returned, will be notified of the date for a test. These are held periodically at the Ouachita Valley Vocational - Technical School in West Monroe. After this test has been taken, the applicant must pass a physical examination. He will be assigned to the area from which he applies, should he be accepted.

The requirements, basically, for a state trooper are: he must be at least five feet, eight inches tall, weigh at least 160 pounds, 21 years old, a registered voter in the state of Louisiana, in good health, have at least a high school education, and a good reputation.

The starting salary for a trooper is $340, plus an expense allowance.

I have a complete set of Federal Migratory Duck Stamps, dating back to the first one issued in 1934-35 (30 in all). Are they a collector's item and is there any value to them?

Duck stamps are not a collector's item as such, but Ducks Unlimited collects them and sells them for the purchase of land for waterfowl restoration. The Ouachita Wildlife Unit Collects the stamps for Ducks Unlimited.

Do beavers eat fish?

Yes, beavers eat some types of fish. A local zoo official said beavers are similar to raccoons in their eating habits, and will eat almost anything.

Why is it they are not putting reinforcement rods in the Stella Street section of I-20?

A spokesman for the local Highway Department official answered that the type of pavement being used in the Stella Street approach does not specify the use of mesh reinforcement. Reinforcement material is used on Interstate-20, but the approaches are of a different type of design.

Is Ivory Joe Hunter, the Negro piano player who lived in Monroe, dead? If not, where does he live?

Ivory Joe Hunter is still very much alive; in fact, he has recently played for two engagements at a local establishment. He is now living in Houston, Tex.

What is Jack Benny's address?

His address is listed in the Celebrity Register as 1002 N. Roxbury Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif.

Is the nursing profession under civil service? For example, if one gets a rating such as Nurse I to Nurse II or Nursing Aide II to Nursing Aide III, isn't there supposed to be an adjustment in salary?

The nursing profession is not under civil service as such. However, nurses in state hospitals and Veterans Administration hospitals do receive a grade or rating. When a nurse moves to a higher rating, she should receive a corresponding salary adjustment, according to a local nursing official. There are no such ratings in private hospitals.

Is it against the law to ride a bicycle on sidewalks?

Actually the ordinances in both Monroe and West Monroe prohibit the riding of bicycles on the sidewalks, although this is not strictly enforced.

Small youngsters riding bicycles, such as those with training wheels and of that size ride on the sidewalks — and while it is inconvenient for those walking on the sidewalks, it is much safer for the small children.

The same is true for those youngsters in the lower teenage bracket.

However, older teenagers using bicycles should not ride on the sidewalks, police officials point out.

This somewhat laxity in enforcement of the ordinance on riding bicycles on sidewalks is done, police officials said, in an effort to avoid accidents involving the youngsters.

What is the difference between farm and commercial licenses for trucks? Can farm licenses be used by those on construction or similar type work?

Authorities at headquarters for Troop F, Louisiana state police, said the farm license on trucks is just for use on the farms, such as hauling produce, etc. However, a farmer may use the license for driving around on private or family matters.

In the case of a "commercial" license, the spokesman said there is no license as such — rather it is a "private owner truck" license. Anyone using a truck for any use other than strictly farm use is required to have a POT license. This applies for those who would drive the truck to and from work, on any type jobs such as construction, or such that would require the use of a truck.

State police are charged with enforcing the use of the proper license on trucks, which is being done daily, the spokesman said.

of the fence, but also on my neighbor's side? Isn't there a law covering this?

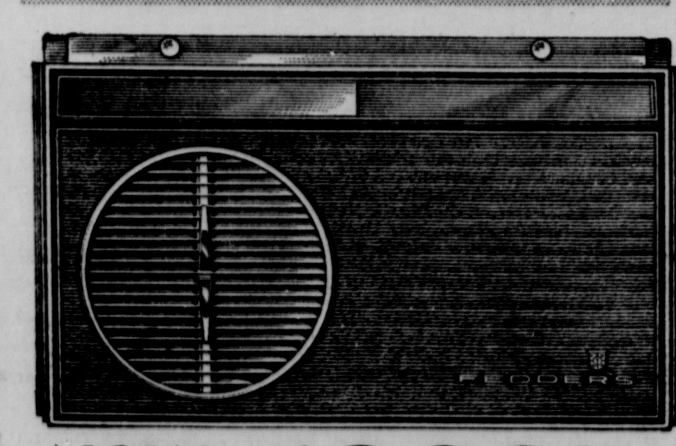

A survey of the ordinances in the City Code of Monroe uncovered no ruling concerning this matter; therefore apparently there is no such law covering weeds and grass growing about a fence. However, Chap. 14, Sec. 14-6 does define owner to mean the person who owns a certain lot in the city limits. The person who owns the property, or lot, is required by ordinance "to cut and destroy all weeds or grass . . . on the lot." If the fence is on the property line and divides the lots, then the owner on the one side is required to trim weeds and grass on his property and the owner on the other side takes care of his own property.

Health Care Only Part Of New Bill

EDITOR'S NOTE — The most extensive changes in the Social Security system in 30 years since its establishment are embodied in a bill nearing final congressional action. This is the third in a series of articles detailing the changes.

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Medicare has stolen the headlines, but nearly half of the $6-billion bundle of new benefits in the Social Security bill will go into higher old age pensions and welfare payments.

In the far-off future — say about the year 2010 — the massive bill now being rushed to completion will bring monthly Social Security checks as big as $368 a month to some families.

Such pie in the sky is not for the more than 16 million Americans who already are retired or who will reach 65 soon.

But all of these will make some modest financial gains — tangible and spendable — and the first batch of new benefits is just around the corner.

They will come in September, if President Johnson gets the mammoth bill from Congress in time to sign it in July. Congress has decreed that many sections shall take effect in the second month after enactment.

So if you are already on the Social Security rolls as a retired or disabled worker or the widow of one, your September check will be 7 per cent greater. The smallest increase will be $4.

That check should reach you about Oct. 3. Even before it comes you will have received, along about mid-September, a separate check amounting to 56 per cent of your regular monthly payment.

This is the lump-sum payment of the increase, retroactive to last Jan. 1. It represents eight months of increase at 7 per cent.

If you have been receiving the minimum retirement benefit, $40 a month, you will get $44 from September on.

If you have been getting the top amount for a retired individual, $127, your monthly benefit moves up to $135.90.

For those who will be retiring in the future, the pensions will be larger, because the wage base — the portion of your income on which both the benefits and the Social Security tax are figured — rises from $4,860 to $6,600 next Jan. 1.

Eventually the monthly check will climb as high as $168. The limit for a family, now $254, will advance to $368.

But eventually is a long way off, and there is something for you to do right now: Find out whether any of the dozens of other changes in the Social Security law are aimed at your own problems.

Several of these liberalizations take effect month after next, along with the basic pension increase; some next Jan. 1; some are retroactive. They affect widows, children, farmers, waiters, disabled persons and the blind.

The Social Security Administration fully expects to be swamped with inquiries and will welcome them.

There are 620 Social Security offices across the country, a spokesman points out, and every one of them has issued a standing invitation: "Come in and ask us questions."

Are you a widow whose husband was on the Social Security rolls?

Then you can start receiving benefits at age 60 instead of 62, if you choose. This is effective in September.

If you decide on this course, your monthly benefit payments will be 71.5 per cent of your late husband's benefit, a somewhat smaller amount than you would get if you waited two years more.

Are you a retired worker able to earn more money but barred from doing so because you would forfeit monthly Social Security checks?

After next Jan. 1, you can step up your earnings. The new law will permit up to $1,500 a year without loss of benefits. The old limit was $1,200.

And whereas you now lose $1 in benefits for every $2 in wages that you earn between $1,200 and $1,700, the new law will extend the 2-for-1 range from $1,500 to $2,700.

Do you have a child in school or college?

The new law says that the children of retired, deceased, or disabled workers will continue to receive benefits until age 22 if they are in school.

That section, retroactive to last Jan. 1, can help nearly 300,000 youngsters who might otherwise have to quit classes and get a job. The present law cuts them off at age 18.

Are you 72 or over, but ineligible for benefits because you lack the required number of quarter-years in a covered job?

From September on, you may qualify for a new "transitional insured" status.

It means you would receive a basic benefit of $35 a month; your wife would get $17.50.

Does a disability prevent you from earning a living?

As of September, you are eligible for benefits if your disability has lasted 12 months or can be expected to last that long.

Under the old rule, you were barred unless the disability was expected to last indefinitely or to result in death.

Are you the divorced wife of a retired or deceased worker who had Social Security coverage?

If so, you qualify for benefits at age 62 if you were married for 20 years and if the former husband had been making a "substantial" contribution to your support.

Are you a widow of 62 or over who is thinking of getting married again?

You'll no longer lose all your late husband's benefits when you do. You can go on getting half of the amount, instead of the present 82.5 per cent, if it is to your advantage to do so.

Are you a waiter, porter or barber?

You and a million others who receive a substantial part of their income in tips may now get Social Security credit for your tip income.

You will be required to report the amount of the tips to your employer, and he will count them into your paycheck deductions for both income tax and Social Security.

But your employer isn't legally accountable if you fail to tell him how much you made in tips. And unlike other employers, he is not required to match your Social Security tax.

Even without his contribution, you'll get full benefits when age 65 comes and you can get off your aching feet at last.

Next — the cost of security — a multibillion-dollar boost in payroll taxes.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Van Dellen

BOTULISM IS DEADLY

Every year there are 10 to 15 outbreaks of botulism in this country. The latest involved seven persons from Granger, Wash., who ate a common meal. A 13-year-old boy ate everything but the pork and beans and did not become ill. This edible was suspected as the cause because it was consumed by the others as part of the menu.

This type of poisoning usually stems from home-canned products. The foods are contaminated with spore (Clostridium botulinum) commonly found in soil. These heat-resistant microbes multiply and manufacture a powerful poison unless the foods are properly sterilized during the canning process. In this regard, the illness is due to toxins and not to bacterial invasion.

Nausea and vomiting develop in 16 to 24 hours, giving a hint as to the possible offender. More definite signs of toxicity include lassitude, headache, double vision, dizziness, and a sense of constriction in the throat. Breathing difficulty is a sign of overwhelming contamination and a respirator may be needed as a lifesaving device. Botulism is suspected when these symptoms develop after eating home-canned foods, and the offending agent should be sent to the laboratory for tests.

Specific antitoxins are available to counteract the lethal effects of botulism toxins upon the nervous system. It must be used early to be effective. We suggest that it be given to anyone who ate the same food, even though the symptoms have not appeared.

Foods should be canned properly or not at all. This applies particularly to nonacid foods such as beans, corn, and asparagus. Discard all spoiled canned foods and leaky cans. Taste is not a good criterion because the toxin is tasteless. Boiling foods for 30 minutes destroys the poison, but it is not worth the risk when spoilage is suspected. Do not give it to a pet because the toxin is deadly.

INFECTION OR PRESSURE

Mrs. J. writes: I am 62 and have developed inner ear trouble. I do not hear ringing or noises, all I have is light-headedness and an earache. Can you suggest something to relieve this constant pain?

REPLY

Aching usually is a sign of infection or pressure. Consult an ear specialist because treatment other than medicine may be needed.

MAIL YANKING

C. N. writes: Should an ingrown toenail be yanked out and allowed to regrow?

REPLY

Removal offers temporary relief but is not always recommended because the nail may grow back in the same ingrown fashion. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet.

describing this disorder and how it is treated.

KIDNEY ENLARGEMENT

F. D. writes: What are the symptoms of hydronephrosis?

REPLY

This renal condition develops when the flow of urine is obstructed and the backflow leads to enlargement of the kidney. Pain near the point of obstruction and tenderness in the loin are the most common symptoms. The victim also may develop nausea and vomiting.

Baltimore Tops Twins; Whittles On Loop Lead

9th Frame Hit Is Difference In 3-2 Affair

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson singled with the bases loaded in the ninth inning, driving in the winning run as the Baltimore Orioles defeated Minnesota 3-2 Friday night and cut the Twins' American League lead to 3½ games.

The second-place Orioles, handling Jim Perry his first defeat after seven victories, had gotten only three hits when they struck in the ninth.

Charley Lau drew a walk, opening the inning, and Luis Aparicio went in to run. One out later Aparicio raced around to third on a single by Bob Johnson. Bill Pleis came in to pitch and issued a walk to Norm Siebern before Robinson stroked the game-winning hit off Johnny Klippstein.

Bob Allison and Earl Battey smacked consecutive homers leading off the Minnesota eighth, tying the score with startling suddenness after the power-hitting Twins had been held to two hits through seven innings by Steve Barber, now 8-7.

Barber had retired 15 batters in a row before the Twins flexed their muscles.

Perry allowed two of his hits in the fourth, when Baltimore scored twice with the aid of a throwing error by right fielder Tony Oliva and a Perry wild toss led to one unearned run, he made two great running catches during the inning to prevent a big rally.

Russ Snyder opened the fourth with a single. With one out, Siebern singled to right and Oliva heaved the ball into the third base dugout. Snyder scored and Siebern went to third, scoring on the wild pitch.

New York Mets Defeat Phillies In 10th Inning

NEW YORK (AP) — Pinch hitter John Stephenson singled to right field in the 10th inning, driving in the run that gave the New York Mets a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia Friday night.

Relief pitcher Jack Baldschun retired the first batter in the 10th, but Ed Kranepool singled. Chuck Hiller followed with a pinch single, and Kranepool scored as Stephenson singled.

Jack Fisher held the Phillies hitless until the fourth when they scored two runs on a walk to John Briggs, Johnny Callison's double and a single by Rich Allen.

That gave the Phillies a 2-1 lead, but the Mets tied it in the bottom of the fourth on Jim Hickman's eighth homer over the left field fence.

New York scored in the first inning when Billy Cowan led off with a double, went to third on a fly ball and came home on Charley Smith's squeeze bunt.

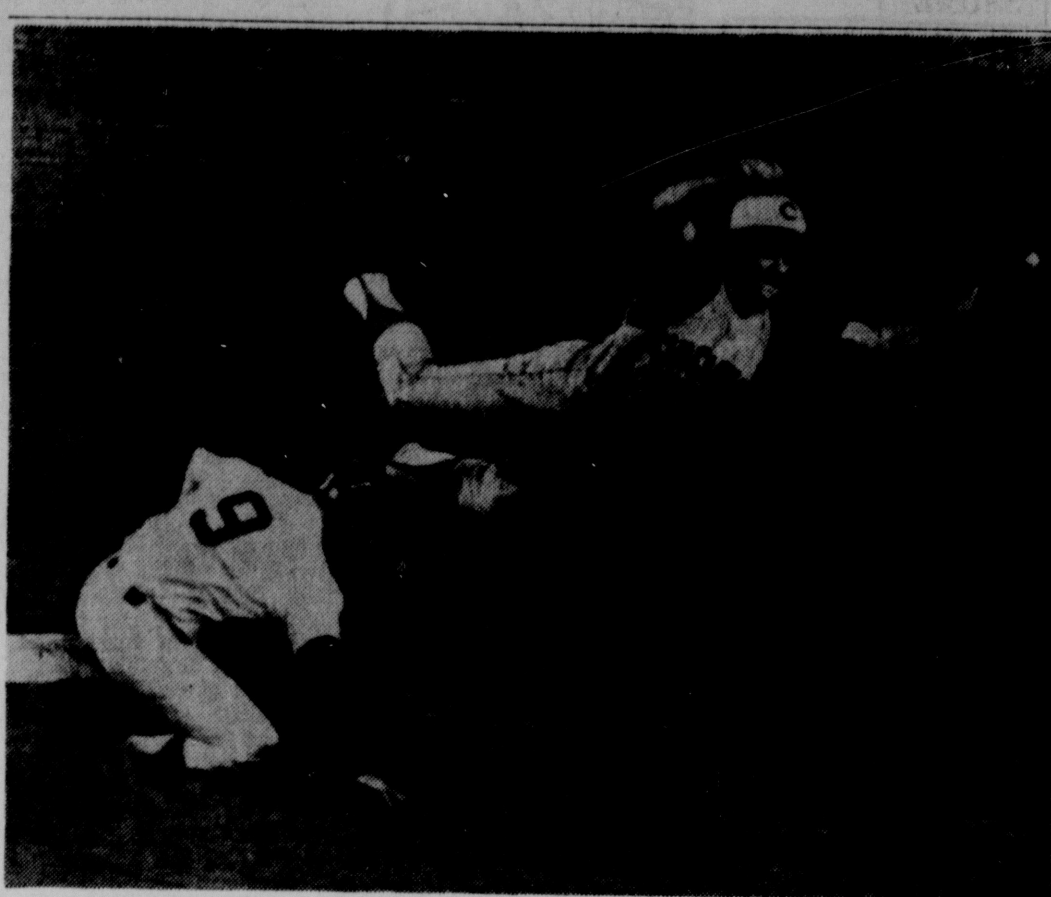

Fisher gave up five hits, gaining his seventh victory against 11 defeats.

The Phillies had two players injured, second baseman Tony Taylor and center fielder Johnny Briggs. Both suffered cuts around the eyes while colliding chasing a fly ball in the eighth inning.

Right fielder Johnny Callison also was involved but did not leave the game. Taylor and Briggs were taken to a hospital.

Matson Wins Shot Put In U.S. Preview Meet

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — World record shot-putter Randy Matson had a winning throw of 65 feet 2 inches Friday night and young Jim Ryun disappointed a home town crowd by finishing third in the mile run during a display of some of America's top track talent.

The meet was a preview for members of the U.S. track team which opens a European tour next week.

Ryun, who has an American record of 3:55.3 pending, ran only 4:10.7 as he appeared to be bothered by a lame knee.

Morgan Groth, Martinez, Calif., was the mile winner in 4:02.2, with George Young, Silver City, N.M., a close second in 4:02.5.

Ryun never threatened during the race, which was run in 90-degree temperature. Following the race aides applied ice packs to Ryun's knee.

Matson, who has a best throw of 70 feet 7 inches, won his event with ease. This was in contrast to his battle for the right to compete in the meet.

Matson's appearance was in question until Friday morning as a result of the feud between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association over sanctioning authority in track meets.

The meet was sanctioned by the AAU for U.S. performers who will meet the Russian national team at Kiev next week.

The NCAA also sanctioned the meet and allowed Matson to compete.

Matson's best throw was nearly five feet ahead of Dave

Monroe Wins Dixie Title, Off To State

Ken Cupples scattered five hits in taking the win and Thomas yielded seven hits in suffering the loss.

Monroe now advances to the state tournament at Colfax and will play Jefferson Parish Monday afternoon at 3 p.m.

Start's Dixie Teams To Visit Houston Dome

START (Special) — The players and managers of the Start Dixie Youth and Dixie Boys League left this morning at 3 a.m. to see the Houston Astros play the Cincinnati Reds at the Astrodome in Houston, Tex., this weekend.

The Start Dixie Board of Directors is sponsoring the trip as a token of appreciation for the fine season enjoyed by the local league.

The squads will stay at the White House Inn while in Houston and plan to return home Sunday.

Approximately 35 adults will form a motorcade to follow a bus the teams will be traveling in.

threw 60-8. Matson has a world maggard, Hayward, Calif., who mark of 70-7 pending.

Earlier, four sprint stars from the U.S. team tied the listed American record for the 440-yard relay.

Fred Kuller, Darel Newman, Adolph Plummer and George Anderson sprinted the relay in 40 seconds.

Kuller is from Garfen City, Calif., Newman from Visalia, Calif., Plummer from Los Angeles, and Anderson from Philadelphia.

They tied the record listed for the University of Texas in 1957 and tied twice by Grambling, La., College in 1964. A mark of 39.7 by Stanford May 8 is pending for recognition.

Detroit Uses Homers To Beat Chicago

DETROIT (AP) — Two-run home runs by Don Demeter and Bill Freehan powered the Detroit Tigers to a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox Friday night.

Orlando Pena, who relieved starter Hank Aguirre in the third inning, gave up only four hits and recorded his second triumph since coming to the Tigers from Kansas City.

Demeter homered off Chicago starter John Buzhardt in the second after the White Sox had touched Aguirre for three runs in the top of the inning on Ken Berry's two-run triple and Don Buford's sacrifice fly.

Freehan's homer capped a three-run Detroit sixth inning. A double by Willie Horton and Dick McAuliffe's single produced the first run of the inning, and Freehan came through after Demeter forced McAuliffe.

Don Wert homered off Chicago star reliever Eddie Fisher in the seventh for what proved to be the winning run.

Pena gave up a leadoff single to Berry in the fourth inning, then retired the next 10 batters before Romano singled, leading off the eighth. Ron Hansen singled with two out in the eighth, but Pena got Smoky Burgess—who was looking for a record-setting pinch-hit—on a pop fly.

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Full-back Jimmy Brown checked into the Cleveland Browns summer training camp Friday night, just a few hours after he had been cleared of an assault and battery charge in Cleveland.

The race was run under the lights with the temperature at 90 degrees. An estimated 7,000 fans watched top U.S. performers prior to their departure for the meet at Kiev, Russia, and meets in Poland and West Germany.

Madeline Manning of Cleveland, pulled an upset in the women's 440-yard dash, defeating Janell Smith of Fredonia, Kan., the American record holder.

Willie White, Chicago, Dianna Wilson, Los Angeles, and Edith McGuire of Atlanta, Ga., completed the relay team, which won in 46.3 seconds.

Miss McGuire, winner of the Olympic 200 meters, defeated Miss Tyus in the 220-yard dash in 24.2.

Heat Helps

CHICAGO (AP) — The heat wave in Chicago, with temperatures soaring into the 90s, is helping the College All-Stars get in condition for their Aug. 6 meeting with the Cleveland Browns in Soldier Field.

"This hot weather is the best thing in the world for the players," said Mike McCormack, line coach on offense. "Especially after our scrimmage Wednesday. It gives the players a chance to work out the bumps and bruises."

Hollis, Brooks Set For Clinic

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Neville high school basketball will be very much in evidence at the Louisiana High School Coaches Association's annual coaching school and all-star games here August 2-6.

Neville coach Bennie Hollis, whose team compiled a 27-5 record last season will be one of the featured lecturers of the basketball clinic along with Billy Allgood of Louisiana College, Tex Winter of Kansas State, Frank Truitt of LSU and Alton Leggett of Holden High.

Giants End Braves' Win Streak At 10

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — First-inning home runs by Willie McCovey and Jesus Alou carried the San Francisco Giants past Milwaukee 5-1 Friday night and ended the Braves' 10-game winning streak.

McCovey's 22nd homer followed a single by Jim Davenport off losing pitcher Ken Johnson. One out later, Alou hit his seventh homer with the bases empty. The Giants collected only two more hits during the game.

Eddie Mathews hit his 21st homer starting the second inning off Ron Herbel, who gained his sixth victory in 11 decisions. Johnson took his fifth loss against 10 victories.

The Giants scored another run in the seventh when Len Gabrielson walked, moved to third on Hal Lanier's single and scored on a sacrifice squeeze bunt by Dick Schofield. Their final run came in the eighth on walks and a single by Hal Lanier.

The Braves left six men stranded in the first seven innings as Herbel was forced continually to pitch out of trouble.

Frank Bolling hit into double plays that ended threats in the fourth and sixth innings.

Mike de la Hoz singled leading off the seventh. But second baseman Hal Lanier made a spectacular play on pinch-hitter Jesse Gonder's slow grounder, tagging de la Hoz and throwing to first for the Giants' third double play.

Along with the 'Pandemonium' a show of AA fuel dragsters from various points in the mid-south running for the top eliminator will be featured.

Many of the AA fuel dragster drivers are anxious to come to Harmon Raceway for a full speed run in preparation for the NHRA 1965 Regional Championship races that will be held at the local raceway August 14, 1965.

The usual gathering of stock cars is anticipated, with gasers, altered, factory experimental, super stockers, modified productions and the various classes of stockers.

Time trials begin at 4 p.m., and eliminations start at 7:30 p.m.

'Pandemonium' To Be Featured At Harmon Strip

'Pandemonium' will break loose tonight at Harmon Raceway, and put on a full blown exhibition of dragging with the hottest of the hot cars.

'Pandemonium' is the national sensation of racing fans that was featured in the July issue of 'Drag Racing Magazine'.

This 1965 Plymouth Barracuda stock body is powered by a 392 cubic inch Chrysler engine, the same type used in most AA Fuel Dragsters.

Bob Sullivan of Kansas City, Kan. is the owner and driver. Sullivan, a veteran of twenty years of dragging, won the AHRA Championship in 1960, 1961, 1962, and 1963 found him champion of the ¼ mile. He was 1963 top fuel eliminator at the AHRA Winternationals, and has won many other top awards.

The 3400 pound car's engine is equipped with the necessary special racing components for running a fuel mixture of nitro-methane and alcohol. Special type brakes in conjunction with a 16 foot ribbon deist parachute are used for stopping.

Along with the 'Pandemonium' a show of AA fuel dragsters from various points in the mid-south running for the top eliminator will be featured.

Many of the AA fuel dragster drivers are anxious to come to Harmon Raceway for a full speed run in preparation for the NHRA 1965 Regional Championship races that will be held at the local raceway August 14, 1965.

The usual gathering of stock cars is anticipated, with gasers, altered, factory experimental, super stockers, modified productions and the various classes of stockers.

Time trials begin at 4 p.m., and eliminations start at 7:30 p.m.

Lary To Retire After 11 Years Of NFL Play

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Yale Lary, reflecting on 11 lively years in the National Football League, announced Friday his retirement as the Detroit Lions' punting and defensive specialist.

"When the coaches are younger than you are, it's time to quit," quipped Lary, 34, at what was designed to be a news conference prior to the official announcement.

The conference actually resembled a fraternity bull session with Lary, his tie askew, recalling incidents during the frequently turbulent years of the NFL.

Asked to elaborate on his experiences with Bobby Layne, one of the league's all-time great and stormy quarterbacks, Lary replied:

"You can't print them."

Then he added:

"No, all those stories you hear about Bobby Layne—well, . . .

they're all true. On and off the field, he's the greatest.

"He was the Chief. Everybody else was an Indian."

The former Texas A&M star said Layne classified his companion during his off-field as "Stayers or leavers—I was a stayer."

On the field, he recalled, Layne demanded excellent protection from his blockers.

"If somebody didn't block for him, he'd send them off the field. He wouldn't let them play. He'd tell the coach, 'don't send that so-and-so (or something similar) in any more'."

"If he told you to block. . . you blocked. If he told you to drink. . . you drank. . ."

He said former Detroit Coach Buddy Parker and Layne, both individualists of the highest order, got along marvelously because they thought exactly alike.

He said Parker's abrupt resignation in 1957 caught all of us by surprise.

The squad, he said, was at a big pre-season meet the Lions Banquet. They summoned Parker to say a few words and, Lary said, Parker declared:

"There comes a time in every coach's life when he can't handle his ball players. I quit." You talk about a shock. The emcee thought it was a joke and asked Parker to come back.

"He said, 'H—no. I quit.'"

Lary told also how he tried out at Detroit in the offensive backfield and his futile attempts to block former Notre Dame giant Leon Hart.

After Lary was flattened a couple of times, an assistant coach observed:

"Son, have you tried defense lately?"

Lary went on to become one of the league's outstanding defensive backs and one of the all-time great punters.

He led the league in punting in 1959, 1961, and 1963. He was selected to the All-Pro team four times and played in the Pro Bowl nine times.

He intercepted 50 passes during his career and returned 126 punts for 752 yards.

Lary said he reached his decision to retire with great reluctance and with mixed emotions, adding:

"It's not easy to retire, but I had a good year last season and I prefer to leave with a good record. I owe it to my wife and children to establish a permanent home."

He plans to devote full time to a new automobile dealership he and Bobby Helm, a close friend, recently opened in Suburban Hurst.

Lary confirmed that club officials have urged him to continue playing. "They said I was still young," he smiled.

"Compared to who? Night Train Lane?"

He said, "H—no. I quit."

Tribe Beats Yanks 5-2 As Tiant Wins

CLEVELAND (AP) — Catcher Duke Sims drove in three runs with a homer and a single and pitcher Luis Tiant hit his second major league home run as the Cleveland Indians defeated the New York Yankees 5-2 Friday night.

Tiant, now 9-3, allowed only four hits before the Yankees touched him for three more and a run in the eighth inning. Sonny Siebert came on and ended the rally.

Sims lined his fourth homer off Jim Bouton, 4-11, over the right field fence in the second, scoring Fred Whitfield, who had singled.

Tiant added his homer in the third. His only other major league homer last season also was off Bouton.

An error allowed the Indians to score again in the sixth when Rocky Colavito walked and went to second as Tony Kubek fumbled Chuck Hinton's two-out grounder. Sims' single to right scored Colavito.

Tiant was in trouble in the first inning, when Bobby Richardson, Joe Pepitone and Tom Tresh singled, scoring a run. Then, with one out, Tresh and Pepitone tried a double steal on a third strike to Elston Howard.

Sims threw toward second, but the alert Tiant cut off the throw and tossed to third to trap Pepitone, who had started for home.

Jim Brown Found Innocent; Is Ready To Begin Training

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Jim Brown is ready to play football again after being found innocent Friday of assault and battery against an 18-year-old girl.

The 230-pound all-pro fullback for the Cleveland Browns said he was completely happy and ready to report to Coach Blanton Collier at the club's training camp at nearby Hiram.

Brown, the National Football League's leading aground gainer for seven of his eight years, has missed more than a week of practice. The NFL champions meet the College All-Stars Aug. 6 in Chicago.

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated only an hour and 20 minutes, a fact which Brown called significant.

The 29-year-old father of three had been charged with assault and battery by Brenda Ayres. She testified he beat her in his motel room the night of June 19 and forced her into sexual relations. Both Brown and Miss Ayres are negroes.

Brown, who testified he never had sexual relations with the 108-pound high school dropout, said "the evidence proved it was a preposterous accusation."

His wife, Sue, clutched hands with Brown's mother, Mrs. Theresa Brown, when the verdict was read. Mrs. Brown wept when Municipal Judge Blanche Kruparsky read "not guilty."

Sue Brown said "I'm very happy it's all over."

After the judge left the court room, people rushed to shake hands with Brown and slap him on the back. Brown commented on the effect of his 10-day trial on his image as a popular football player:

"I have been proven innocent. I hope the general public will accept this. I leave it to their judgment."

Browns President Art Modell said he had spent an evening with the fullback several weeks ago when charges were first filed on June 21.

"From that meeting on," Modell said, "I haven't had the slightest doubt of his complete innocence."

Collier said "I'm very gratified that the jury found to be true what we all felt from the beginning. I'm pleased they upheld our own belief."

Jury foreman Gary Arnosk said "the main point of contention in our minds was when and how Brenda Ayres received the injuries." He said the jury needed only one ballot to arrive at a verdict.

Brown said he would take no action for false arrest.

Both Minor and Police Prosecutor Albert Corsi, in their final arguments, said it was Brown's word against the girl's.

Minor indicated that Brenda was beaten after she arrived home from the motel the afternoon of June 20, then taken to a hospital for an examination.

Bob Friend Hurls 1-Hitter, Wins 6-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Friend allowed only one hit — an infield single by Chicago's Don Landrum in the fourth — while pitching his 34th major league shutout for Pittsburgh Friday 6-0 with the help of two homers by Jim Pagliaroni and one by Donn Cledenon.

Friend, shutout leader among active right-handed pitchers in the National League, lost his chance at a no-hitter when Land

LBJ Wants No Silver Coin Hoarding

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed Friday the bill which is to bring copper-nickel "sandwich" coins to the public early next year. But, said the President, don't hoard your present silver coins. Such hoarding wouldn't be profitable, he asserted when signing the bill, because there now are 12 billion silver coins in circulation, another billion will be minted before production ends and silver coins last an average of 25 years. And he said the Treasury expects to hold the line on the price of uncoined silver. Treasury sources said production of the silverless quarters can begin within a couple of weeks at the Denver or Philadelphia mint while dimes can be produced in quantity by early next year. The new half-dollars, with silver content reduced from 90 to 40 per cent, are not expected to start flowing from the mints until later in 1966. The San Francisco mint is being reactivated to play a part in production.

Donations Being Accepted To Aid Burned Infant

Donations are now being accepted to help defray expenses of 18-month-old David Neil Davidson, who suffered critical burns a month ago. The small son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wayne Davidson, 2901 Lee Ave., is reported improving by his doctors. However, he will have to be taken to Galveston for treatment of these particular type of burns, and doctors estimate that it will be about three years before he will be able to walk. The infant apparently awoke from his nap on the afternoon of June 23, and decided to give himself a bath, filling his tub with scalding hot water.

A committee from the First Baptist Church of Monroe will receive any donations to go toward the many medical expenses that will be incurred during David Neil's long recovery period, according to Dr. James T. Horton, pastor. All contributions should be sent to the church.

Numerous Courtesies Are Given For Local Couple, Miss Cordell, Mr. Kellogg

In anticipation of the approaching marriage of Miss Caroline Bernice Cordell and Robert Long Kellogg in the First Presbyterian Church in Monroe on Friday evening, July 30, numerous prenuptial courtesies are being extended. Parents of the betrothed couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lesslie Woods and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Donovan Kellogg.

The Henry Biedenharn home on Loop Road was the setting on Wednesday evening, July 21, for a cocktail party honoring Miss Cordell and Mr. Kellogg. Co-hostess with Mrs. Biedenharn for the affair was Mrs. Haydn Cutler.

Throughout the reception areas of the home were arrangements of roses, dahlias, and gardenias. On the piano in the living room reposed a tall, antique silver compote holding a mass arrangement of pink Queen Elizabeth roses. In the Garden Room a massive iron urn held caladium leaves, magnolias and foliage, accented by burning tapers used throughout the room, terrace, and lawn.

The refreshment table was overlaid with white, and centered with a silver epergne holding white stock, brides' roses, gardenias, and dahlias. Crystal and silver candlesticks with white tapers flanked this central arrangement.

Miss Cordell chose to wear a silk print in shades of periwinkle blue and shocking pink, trimmed with avocado green, featuring a low cowl neckline in back, and accented with avocado accessories.

Invited to share the festive evening with Miss Cordell and Mr. Kellogg were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woods Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, III, Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop Johnston, III, Mr. and Mrs. Dix Johnston, Miss Jan Gentry, Larry S. ## Study Club Hears Talk On Color Harmony

The Highland Study Club held their monthly meeting, Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Ralph Elmhorn on Ridge Avenue in West Monroe. Mrs. A. G. Hicks served as co-hostess.

Mrs. W. P. Heard, presided over a brief business session. Mrs. John Lewis, speaker for the evening, gave an interesting talk on "Color Harmony", using a color wheel in her illustrations. She also made arrangements using the different lines of arranging for demonstration.

Mrs. I. O. Parker, a guest at the meeting, was introduced to the members. Others attending were Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. Heard, Mrs. Elmhorn, Mrs. Sidney Swink, Mrs. James W. Cook and Mrs. J. F. Smith.

Frances Read Honored With Informal Party

Mrs. Harry Farrar and Mrs. Metz Tugwell were hostesses for a conversational hour, Saturday, July 17, in the Tugwell home in Farmerville. Inspiration for the party was the forthcoming marriage of the honoree, Miss Frances Read, who will wed Lou Burgess of Monticello, Illinois, July 31 in Farmerville Methodist Church. Miss Read is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Read of Farmerville and Mr. Burgess is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Burgess of Monticello.

Decorations for the house followed a bridal motif. On the register table with the bride's book was a satin covered emblem bearing the names of the bride-elect and her fiancé and the date of their prospective marriage.

Upon entering the living room, guests saw unique bride and groom figures made of a broom and mop with features formed from various materials. Nylon net was used as a veil for the bride model and her bouquet consisted of scouring pads.

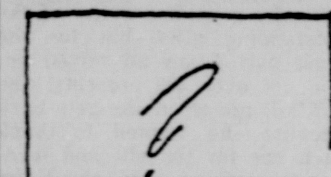

A linen damask cloth covered the refreshment table which was centered with an arrangement of pink sensation roses; a milk glass punch bowl graced one end of the table.

The honoree wore a royal blue sheath dress of a textured weave material.

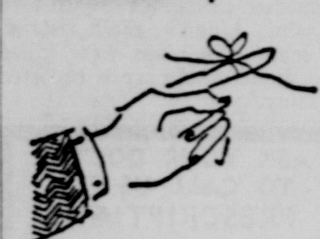

Attending were Mrs. Paul Read, Mrs. Cecil Read, Mrs. Terry Pratt, Miss Rebecca Read, Miss Margaret Baughman, Miss Judy Adams and Miss Judy Armer.

FRENCH TOAST

Ever add grated orange juice to the egg and milk mixture used for dipping bread slices for French toast. A little sugar is another good addition to the dipping mixture; the sugar helps the French toast brown.

Stewart Friday announced 81 state highway employees in District 5 received special awards in this year's annual recognition of excellence and service longevity. District 5 is made up of Union, Morehouse, West and East Carroll, Lincoln, Jackson, Ouachita, Richland and Madison parishes.

A total of 943 employees of the statewide highway department force have been honored this year with certificates in recognition for periods of service ranging from 5 to 40 years. Among those receiving awards was Stewart who received his 15 year pin.

Monroe Utilities Strike Pickets To Take Posts

A midnight strike deadline passed with no agreement between the Monroe Utilities Commission and a group of dissident employees. Local union official Ben Wisenor said late Friday pickets will go on post at 7 a.m. today at the City Barn, 209 12th St.

Wisenor, business manager for International Brotherhood of Electric Workers, Local 446, said there are no firm plans for meetings with city officials, but added, "We're ready and willing to meet at any time."

He commented after a lengthy session with the employees late Friday. About 24 workers, linemen, helpers and apprentices are involved in the strike, "mainly over wages."

Earlier Friday, Utilities Commission Manager French L. Smith indicated that city officials would "do everything possible" to keep the water and electrical systems going.

Wisenor said the workers are seeking an average increase of around 10 cents per hour, "plus a little more for helpers and apprentice who don't get very much."

"Some of these men have worked for the city 10 years and more."

Charles Bird, vice chairman of the utilities commission, however, said the group is "receiving fair wages and additional benefits."

He listed three-fold responsibilities of the commission — "to our employees, as well as to the citizens of Monroe, and to the City of Monroe which derives revenue from the system." He said the three must be balanced.

Contract with the workers expired June 30. Negotiations have been underway since May.

Hints From Heloise

Use Citrus Fruit To Sweeten Disposal

By Heloise

Dear Heloise: I am the proud owner of a new disposal unit. But I find that odors come from the unit. Can you help me?

H. O.

Many people complain of this. I believe it is because they do not use them correctly. After the garbage is put in the disposal, turn on the COLD water faucet before you start the machine. (The instructions say to use cold water. Besides, it's cheaper than hot!) AFTER the unit has done all its chopping

Officials Dubious Of Cong Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department expressed doubt Friday of the authenticity of captured documents in Viet Nam purporting to order the return of Communist forces to the North. Vietnamese news agency reports Thursday said a directive found on the body of a Viet Cong battalion commander killed at Xuyen Moc ordered Viet Cong troops to return to North Viet Nam.

Press officer Marshall Wright said the document is under study by both South Vietnamese and American authorities. "I understand that both Vietnamese military experts and U.S. officials have expressed considerable skepticism on the authenticity of the document," Wright said.

White Knight Klan Ired By 'Outsiders'

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan has become incensed at activities in Mississippi by the United Klans of America, The Associated Press learned Friday, and is considering retaliation.

Reliable sources said the secret White Knights' ire has been raised by recent rallies by Robert Shelton, imperial wizard of the United Klans.

Shelton spoke to a crowd of 1,000 in Greenville Thursday night, the fourth rally he has held in the state in recent weeks.

Sources said the White Knights consider Shelton's activities open recruiting, and retaliation - possibly violence - may be undertaken to lessen United Klan growth.

The nightriding members of the White Knights, sources said, have been instructed to stop any known movement to the United Klan.

Shelton, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., heads the United Klan which meets openly. Members wear hoods and robes which are not concealing.

The White Knights are a group which passes out clandestine printed material, burns crosses and claims to actively fight the advance of civil rights in South Mississippi and northeast Louisiana. Shelton spoke to a crowd this week at Crossroads, Miss., twice to crowds of 5,000 each time. Crossroads is in White Knight territory and just across the line from troubled Bogalusa, La.

Shelton also spoke to a rally in Meridian recently.

Sources said many of those attending the Mississippi rallies were members of the White Knights from Louisiana and Mississippi. At the Greenville rally, Shelton appealed for membership.

The White Knights, sources said, do not think the United Klan follows measures stern enough to battle integration.

With Shelton at the Greenville rally was E. L. McDaniel, grand dragon of the Mississippi Realm of the United Klans.

Prior to Shelton's talk, where he opened the United Klan to membership, McDaniel introduced to the crowd Neshoba County Sheriff Lawren Rainey.

With Rainey, who was introduced as "the great American," was his deputy, Cecil Price.

Both have been charged in connection with the deaths of the three civil rights workers last summer near Philadelphia, Miss.

Rainey also attended the Meridian rally. Also in the crowd was Byron De La Beckwith, a white Green-wood man accused of the sniper slaying of NAACP field secretary Medgar Evers. The case is still pending.
